THE PSYCHIC EXPERIENCES OF A SOLDIER IN HIS FIRST BATTLE ...

REPORE THE DATELL.

. 'A graphic piesure of the psychic experiante of a soldier plunged for the first HONGKONG, CANTON, MACAO time into this pandemonium of a medern battle is given in the Betch byas woundcel artiflery officer who has arrived here. He says: "I cannot say where we tought, for we are forbidden to divulge that, but I will tell you my own experienerge. In times of peace one has no enception chechat a battleareally means. When war was declared our brigade was desputched to the theatre or operations.

I went with delight, and so did the others. When we reached our destination we were told that the burtle would begin in the mornings " At daybreak positions were assigned to use and the commander of the brigade handed us a plan of the action of our artillery. From that monoint horror possessed our sonis. It was not anxiety for ourselves or fear of the enemy, but a feeling of awa in the face of somes thing unknown, At six o'think we opposed fire at a mark which we could not distinguish, but 'which we" understood to The attention of the travelling Public is drawn to the comfort afforded by the Companies' vessels. REGIMENTS WIPED OFF. " Towards midday we were informed that the German eagulry was attempting to envelop our right wing, and were ordered in that direction. Having occupied our new position ar waited. Suddenly we see the enemy coming, and at the same time he opens fire on us. We turn our guns upon him, and I give the order to fire. I myself feel that I am in a kind of nightmare. Our buttery officers begin to melt away. I see that the tiermans are developing their attack. First cone regiment appears, and then another. I direct the guns and pour a volley of projectiles right into the thick of the first regiment. Then second volley, and a third. I see how they full among the men, and can even discorn the severed limbs of the dead flying into the air after the juplcation." "One of the enemy's regiments is annihilated, a Then a second one. All this time I am pouring missiles in among them. But now the nervous feeling has left me. My soul is filled with hate and I continue to shoot at the quemy without the least feeling of pity." A DREADFUL VISION. "Yet still the enemy is advancing. rushing forward and lying down in turns. I do not understand his tactics, but what-One of the above Steamers leaves Canton for Wachow every Monday, Wednesday and Friday, at about 8 a.m., and the other leaves Wachow for Canton on the are they to me? During the first night after the battle I could not sleep a wink. All the time my mind was filled with pictures of the battlefield. I saw German regimenta approaching, and myself firing right into the thick of them. Heads, arms, legs, and whole bodies of men were boing flung high into the air. It wad a dreadful vision.

CHI I was in four battles. When the second began I went into it like an automaton. Only your muscles are taxed. All the rest of your being seems paralysed. So complete is the suspension of the sensory processes that I never dolt my wound. All I remember is that a feeling of giddiness came over me and my head began to swim. Then swooned to the ground, and was picked up by the Medical Corps and carried to

DIPHTHERIA—FOW IT MAY BE AVOIDED.

DIPHTHERIA is usually contracted when top child has a cold. The cold prepares the child's system for the reception and development of the diphtheria germs. When there are cases of diphtheria in the neighbourh and children that have colds should be kopt at home and off the street until recovered. Give them Chamberlain's Cough Rem dy and they will not have to remain at home long. It also cleans out the culture heds, which form in a child's throat when it bes a cold, and minimizes the risk of contracting infectious diseases. For cale by all Chamists and Just the Same. HOW KING LUDGIG DIED. Apart from its picture of the Empress, and of the strange, secret relationship between herself and her mother, the author's narrative has its chief interest in the account she gives of the fate of Ludwig of Bavaria and of the Crown Prince Rudolph. It was from the Empress that the Countess heard the stories that she tells of these dark tragedies. Ludwig, said the Empress, who had been his intimate driend and who was levoted to his memory, was not mad They might as well call Louis XIV mad, or any other man with great ideas. His downfall, according to the Empress, was due to the enmity of Bismarck, who was determined to crush him on account of his opposition to the proclamation of the King of Prussia as Emperor of Germany. When the commission of doctors and ministers visited the eastle Neuschwanstein to make the King captive, he sent a message to the Empress Elizabeth appealing for help. She advised him to let evente take their course; and planned to rescue him from his detention at Berg. She was herself staying at Feldaling, which is on the Austrian frontier, on the side of the Starenberg See, remote from Berg. One of Ludwig's keepers was won over, and it was arranged that the King should have access to a bout hidden in the rushes on the lake, and should row himself across to safety. The Empress had persuaded the Emperor de guaranteo Ludwig's security from arrest in Austria. Unfortunately, this plan was betrayed to Dr. you Gudden, in whose charge the King was. Pearing that other of the captive's guardians might be in the plot, he resolved to circumvent it by his ester maided efforts. What happened was told to the waiting Empresa the same night by the keeper who had thed to herlifate the King's eccape. It was a matter of life and death for them, as if they had gone by the more southern route they could not have the terrible events that might happen. hoped, in view of the panelty of reads and the strength of the fortresses, to have got through without formidable opposition, entailing great loss of time. This loss of time would have meant time ignized by the Russians for bringing up their troops to the German frontier. Rapidity of Setion was the great German usset, while that of Russia was an inexhausible supply of troops. I pointed defend Belgium's neutrality if attacked. out to flore you Jagow that this fait accompli of the violation of the Belgian drontier rendered, as he would readily understand, the situation exceedingly grave, and I asked him whether there was not still time to draw back and avoid possible consequences which both he and I would deplore. He replied that, for the reasons he had given me, it was now impossible for them to draw back-THE BRITISH CLIMATUM.

In these matters the chambers of commerce, information bureaux and the Consular service now render n' considerable august of assistance. It is largely as a result of our Consuls', work abroad that the Commercial Intelligence Branch of the Board of Trade has been able to publish promptly so many bulletins dealing with Germany's export trade. Several of these bulletins deal with branches of work of interest to our readers, and those published during the last few days, on topics touched on above, are likely to be as valuable in suggesting openings for British trade as those isaned earlier.

The following official telegram from the French Government; sent via Peking, was received by the Consul-General for France yesterday:-"On the 22nd inst, the Germans attacked vigorously north of Lens and up to the sea, notably around La Bassee, Rainghon,"Armenticres, Warneton, and Dixmude. They were repulsed by the Allied armies, who have maintained their positions. The Germans have shown a certain amount of activity on other parts of the Front, making partial attacks on the Somme towards Fricourt, east of Cruonne top, in the region of Somain, Malacour and also in the Argonne, Champlon and Boisdailly, and south-east of St. Mihiel. All these offensive attacks failed, and the French troops are progressing slightly in the Argonne and in the Woevre

AN EYE-WITNESS' STATEMENT.

. The British In Two Fighting Spheres.

" Longon, Oct. 23, 11.15 a.m. An Eye-witness at Headquarters states that British troops are now in two fighting spheres-the Aisne and Nieuport southwards. The results to both spheres, without being decisive, have been entirely satisfactory. Our Left Wing on the Aisne has advanced considerably in face of some opposition, and the Right Wing lass, been maintaining pressure. The tactical details from the 10th to the 16th were similar to those previously described, though there has been less use made of the Artillery. Owing to mist and rain, there has been only one night attack which suddenly ceased. Our patrols do goodbayonet work at night.

The writer emphasises that the fighting in the North is of a preparatory nature. It is mainly in an industrial region comparable to our Black Country, interspersed with fenland, high hedges, ditches and hop-fields.

A PARADOX OF GAIETY.

Refugees Make Holiday at Folkestone.

If one is to judge by Folkestone, this will certainly rank as the best-dressed war in history. At Dover it was a cloister soli-tude, broken only by the click of the riflebolt when a sentry took it into his head to atrest us. The guard was turned out yery sleepy, but polite and even

Here at Folkestone you can find almost anything except silence. The weather is flawless, the air suave with the true balm of September, and the whole place hums and vibrates with the murmur of crowds The refugees have saved the season. It is a world bien gante, bien chaussé. One hears more French spoken than English, and gowns and accents alike have the authentic touch.

Of course, there are plenty of poor refugees whom you see huddled up pell-mell in St. Michael's Hall, and although everything is still chesp-it is an extraordinarily abundant year for fruit-there must be a good deal of suffering. But it is as a paradox of gaiety that this south coast Belgian refugees and shirts for soldiers at cutting off the hands of our stretcher impresses you. Everywhere bathers, the front. JAPANESE ARMY AND NAVY

The schemes for the extension of the Army and Navy appear to have been decided on at a meeting of the Committee of National Defence on the 7th instant. According to the Mainichi, Mr. Wakatsuki. Einance Minister, proposed that for the present only one new Army Division should be created, and that the general extension scheme for the Navy should be restricted for the time heing to the completion of the three battleships already approved and the construction of sixteen destroyers and a number of submarines. This proposal, however, was rejected, and the Committee agreed to the creation of two new Divisions, but extended the time for their organisation to seven years instead of the six originally proposed. The haval scheme as approved included the construction of ten destroyers (the estimate of Y10,500,000 for the construction of five was approved at the recent special session of the Diot,) and a number of submarines, in addition to the three battleships. The cent of this scheme is calculated at and before we had a chance to form in any order, the enemy were down on us. They far outnumbered us and came on in rare numbers.

The German cavalry charged furiously, but our men opened a hot fire, and with their ranks badly thinned, the Uhlana made a hasty flight, hotly pursued by showers bullets.

Then the German gues got to work. For an hour they shelled us, and we lost a great number of men. The shells were doing all the damage, and were mostly wounding our men in the legs and srms. We stood our ground, however, and for savan hours gave them a cessoless hail of Eleeplessness, palpitation, descrive circulation, dervous dypepits, tie or seuralgia, low spirits, mental and hodily prostration, want of chaftence, general debility, promature decay or declency of the vital forces, long of vitality. Instability of temper, female complaints, hyderia, backache, hearing down sountions, wanting diseases, construction, night sideats, mindly lagh-epiparst water, itc., are all so many different planes of brain and heree witchage and exhaustion, the cause of by far the greater portion of the minery, ill-health and descondancy by which we are confronted on every hard, that can only be successfully combated by the last of this wonderful and highly scientific preparation. Bracing up the system generally it gives one to the exhausted nerves, arrests all weakering, westing discharges, restores the failing energies, and haparta new life and vignus to those who had so recently seeped played out, used my and valueless.

nothing but courtesy as the hands of Herr von Jagow and the officials of the Imperial Foreign Office. At about 11 o'clock on the same merning Count Wolel handed me my passports-which I had earlier in the day demanded in writing-and told me that he but been instructed to confer with me as to the route which I should follow for my return to England. He said that he had understood that I preferred the route via the Hook of Holland to that via Copenhagen; they had therefore arranged that I should go by the former route, only Ishould have to wait till the following morning. I agreed to this, and he said that I might be quite assured that there would be no repeti-tion of the di-graceful scenes of the proced-ing night as full procautions would be taken. He added that they were doing all in their power to have a restaurant car attached to the train, but it was rather a difficult matter. He also brought me a charming letter from Herr von Jagow couched in the most friendly terms. The day was pas er in packing up such articles as time allowed DEPARTURE PROSE BIRLIN.

The night passed quietly without any incident. In the morning a strong force of police was posted along the usual route to the Lehrter Station, while the embassy was smuggled away in taxi-cabs to the station by side streets. We there suffered no molestation whatever, and avoided the treatment meted out by the crowd to my Russian and French colleagues. Count Wedel met us at the station to say goodbye on behalf of Herr von Jagow and to see that all the arrangements ordered for our comfort had been properly carried out.
A retired colonel of the Guards accompanied the train to the Dutch frontier, and was exceedingly kind in his efforts to prevent the great crowds which thronged the platforms at every atation where we stopped from insulting us; but beyond the yelling of patriotic tongs and a lew jeers. and insulting gestures we had really nothing to emplain of during our tedious

Before closing this long account of our last days in Berlin I should like to place 20mm sunday AFTER TRINTY, OCT. 25mm. on record and bring to your notice the quite admirable behaviour of my staff under the most trying circumstances possible. One and all, they worked night and day with scarcely any rest, and I cannot praise too: Responser, Ferial; Venite, Ouseley; highly the obserful real with which Psalms of the 25th morning to Te MMIEDIATELY. Nos 2 to 13 Austin counseller, naval and military attaches, Avenue, Kowloon, Rent, including secretaries, and the two young attaches Barracks, Hongkong. Keys may be for advice and assistance. I was proud to obtained from Watchman at No. 8 Austin bave such a staff to work with, and feel most grateful to them all for the invaluable 1112 assistance and support, often being exposed to considerable personal risk, which they so readily and cheerfully gave to me.

I should also like to mention the great assistance rendered to us all by my American colleague, Mr. Gerard, and his staff. Undeterred by the hooting and hisman with which he was often greated by the mob on entering and leaving the Embassy, his Excellency came repeatedly to see me to ask how he could help us and to make amangements for the safety of stranded British subjects. He extricated many of these from extremely difficult situations at some personal risk to himself. and his calmness and savoir-faire, and his firmness in dealing with the Imperial Fostal Responses, Tallis 7 Venite, Tonus, authorities gave full assurance that the Penegrinus; Special Psalm, No. 104, protection of British subjects and interests Barnby; To Doum, Russell, Jones, could not have been left in more efficient and able hands. -I have, etc.,
